JUST SAYING -

Whatever happened to Limbo?

No, not that kind of limbo. You can probably still find that at your next Luau party. But what about the Limbo that the Catholic Church taught about?

Growing up, you may have heard that Limbo was the place where non-baptized children. Father Michael says that Limbo was one way that resolved the seeming contradiction between two authentic Church teachings – we need Baptism, and God wants everyone to be saved and with Him in Heaven. But Limbo has never been an official teaching of the Church. We don't know how God saves souls with his mercy, but we know He has a plan for each of His children's souls. How each soul is saved is a mystery to us, but that mystery doesn't hinder us from believing God has everything under control.

Father Michael writes, "If you study Scriptures and key Church documents you will find that nothing proposes Limbo as a settled and indisputable teaching. Indeed, it has none of the markers needed for permanent teaching."

A Family Perspective

Today we give thanks for our dads. In teaching us, healing our wounds and providing for us, our dads participate in the teaching, healing and feeding ministry of Jesus. In their generosity, God is made present.
