Remaining in his love!

All of us are familiar with the Golden Rule: Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. Even non-Christian religions or those who practice no religion subscribe to it. In other words, treat others as you would expect to be treated. We can all agree that it is very reasonable and practical, and makes good sense. Even Jesus seems to endorse it! But as we hear today, Jesus calls us to a higher standard or way of thinking – one that is not just in keeping with human expectations, reason and demands, but one that aligns with God's ways.

In our Gospel passage from John, Jesus gives us a new commandment, one that will take commitment, perseverance and self-giving on our part even when it might not seem practical or even sensible. We are told today that we are to love as he loves.

Note that Jesus calls it a commandment, not an option but a mandate for every Christian: As I have loved, so you also should love one another. Measure for measure, our behavior in all aspects of our life must strive to be Christ-like, not merely reasonable or convenient but modeled on Christ.

So how does Jesus love us and what does it mean to have Christ-like love? We have only to look upon the cross to see unconditional and self-giving love that is poured out for each one of us in the outstretched arms of the crucified Christ. Throughout the Gospels, we see this love exemplified in Jesus' words and actions in the way he encounters sinners, heals and liberates the sick, faithfully preaches the word and is faithful to the Father in all things.

Christ's love is so much richer and fuller than mere human love. And it is this love that we are called to imitate in all its fullness, its faithfulness and, even at times, its impracticality.

Yes, Jesus sets a new command for his disciples and for us and he also give us the means to fulfill it: through his example (as he says in the passage), and in the sending of the Holy Spirit later to help us. The very credibility of the Christian message depends on our witness and how we live out that commandment of love.

Today, as we ponder his commandment Jesus has given us, it would serve all of us well to ask ourselves whether love is at the heart of our lives. And keeping in mind that we can do all things with God's help, let us commit to love of God and love of neighbor. To serving others lovingly, speaking lovingly and forgiving abundantly.

May we always remain in his love and may we always share that love with each other.
