Fr. Ben Daghir's Corner

I have had several people ask me, "Of all the things on a priest's desk, what remains at the center of the desk?" First of all, I am learning from Msgr. Siefer, Fr. Walk, and various other priests with experience on how to manage the responsibilities and expectations of a priest. Second, I am learning from great leaders throughout history (I am always looking back into history and analyzing the greats). Third, I am practicing various strategies (I want to be open to new ways of doing things, especially that which has been proven to be highly effective).

So, what remains at the center of my desk?

Evangelization - that mission and everything involved with it always remains at the center of my desk. The Church exists, at her core, to evangelize - to bring Christ to people and, as a result, to transform the world. I understand that throughout my priesthood, as more and different responsibilities are placed under my care, that many other things will be placed on my desk (many of which will be of extreme importance). I get it - the priest must have a very large desk.

But, at the center of the desk must sit the work of evangelization. This will be one of my greatest challenges - to allow the work of evangelization to undergird, permeate, and motivate all the other responsibilities and tasks. This demands a worldview, a mentality, and the constant reminder of the great mission of the Church - "Go and teach all nations" (Matthew 28:19).

The best time to practice placing evangelization at the center of the desk, to learn from those around me, to learn from the saints in history, and to be open to new ways of doing things more effectively is...now.

-Fr. Daghir
