God’s Generosity — Our Vocations

My brothers and sisters our vocations in life began at our Baptism when we are cleansed from both original sin and personal sin which make us children of God and temples of the Holy Spirit. In addition, Baptism gives us a new life in Christ which we celebrate and experience with other people in the Christian community—the Church.
 (Catechism of Catholic Church 1262-1271; 1279)

It is from this Sacrament that we grow in our relationship with Christ through prayer and discover God’s calling in our life, our work, and our vocation. Faith in God leads many people to the vocation and Sacrament of Marriage. Some people respond to God’s calling by entering the priesthood, diaconate, religious life or the single state in life. God’s generosity towards us is His leading us and offering us these unique vocations in life. God knows us more than anyone, that is, where we will be the happiest in loving Him and serving our neighbor.

In our Gospel Reading, Jesus describes in a parable the relationship between a landowner of a vineyard and his workers. The landowner hired workers at different times throughout the day. All workers would be given the same wage.

The meaning of the parable is that God is like the landowner who calls people to work in the vineyard of this world to a variety of vocations in service of one another. Some people enter into Christian marriages both early and late in life. Some people enter into the priesthood or religious life both early and late in life. Some people accept Christ as personal Lord and Savior early and late in life. The end result or payment that everyone receives is the same for all— eternal life. Be open in renewing this calling everyday!

God Bless,
 Father Mark
